A short journey will bring you to the Berber market town of Taroudant. Here you will have a chance to practice your haggling skills in the souk. Continue on in the surrounding agricultural landscapes, which provide oranges, olives and an abundance of roses for the export market. Tiout is your next port of call, a huge natural oasis covering more than 1,000 hectares with more than 20,000 palm trees. Why not explore the oasis 'by...donkey' as the locals do in their daily activities. 'La Perle du Souss' is one of the oldest cities in Morocco and the imposing ramparts bear witness to its past.
